Pantry Pick: Big Island Bees

BY LORA ZARUBEN

Big Island Bees honeys from Hawaii are quite fabulous, with distinctive flavors that come from bees that feed from a single type of indigenous flower. (Most grocery-store honey is blended, and the bees have had a variety of food sources.) Big Island's macadamia blossom has a wonderful nutty finish, the 'Ohi'a Lehua blossom has a caramely finish and the Wililaki Blossom has a lovely spicy finish. They are all organic and none are heated, filtered or preserved in any way. A real treat. bigislandbees.com
